

A Remarkable City, A Remarkable Park

Miami has long been recognized for its daring architecture and sultry climate, but like any great city Miami will ultimately be defined by its public spaces. Museum Park Miami will become the iconic public space that people around the world identify Miami with as Central Park is to New York, Parc Güel to Barcelona, and Balboa Park to San Diego. Great parks foster the civic pride healthy cities need to evolve. Museum Park will be the great Park Miamians and visitors will love to visit, explore, and live near.

A World Class Park

As a world class destination, Museum Park Miami will allow for both active and passive recreation, engaging visitors with exciting and diverse experiences to create lasting memories that can only be experienced in Miami. Visitors and residents alike will enjoy two world class museums: the Miami Museum of Science & Planetarium - including an exhibition space for the Historical Museum of Southern Florida – and the Miami Art Museum in the setting of city lawns, public gardens, and water features, all fronting beautiful Biscayne Bay. Miamians and visitors will explore gardens which stimulate the senses, capture the imagination, and make a lasting connection to an unforgettable landscape. Strolling by the Bay, reading a book in the Bamboo Garden, exploring the Island, or playing a game of soccer, visitors will be treated to a new experience of Miami.
